

A black and white outline map of the African continent. The map shows the borders of all 54 countries. A specific region in the central-western part of the continent is highlighted with a light gray shaded area. This region is bounded by the Atlantic Ocean to the west, the Gulf of Guinea to the north, and the borders of Nigeria, Chad, and the Central African Republic to the east and south. The highlighted area corresponds to the country of Liberia.